

TUTORIAL - CHILD HEALTH INFO - DISABILITY AND CONDITIONS

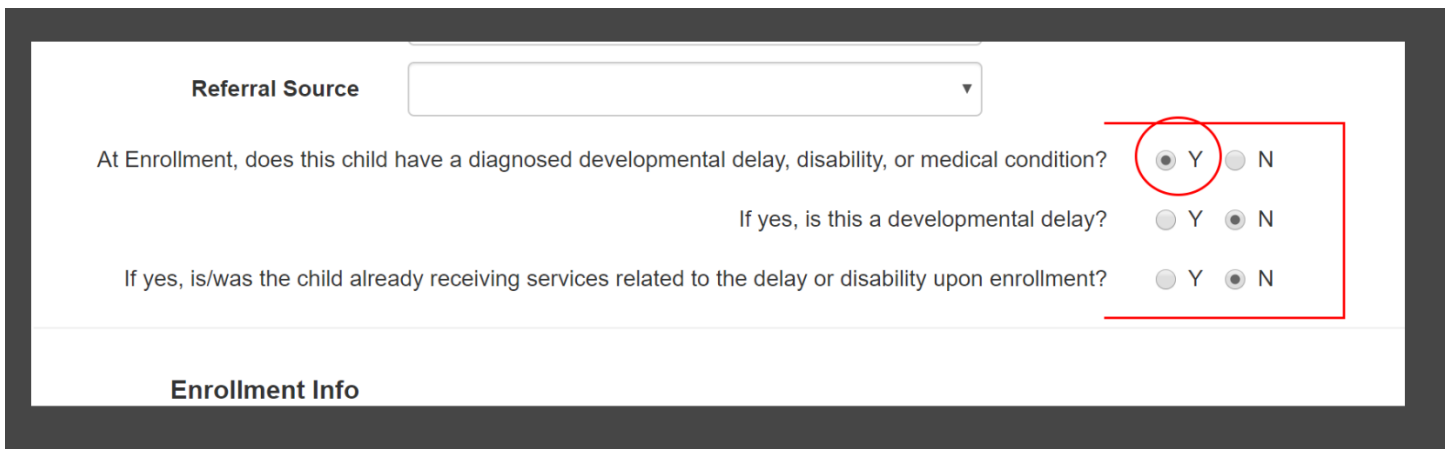

When enrolling a new child or updating a prenatal child with birth information, the following question will be displayed on the data entry page.

The screenshot shows a form with a "Referral Source" dropdown menu. Below it, a red box highlights the question: "At Enrollment, does this child have a diagnosed developmental delay, disability, or medical condition?" with radio buttons for "Y" and "N". The "N" option is selected. Below the question is the "Enrollment Info" label.

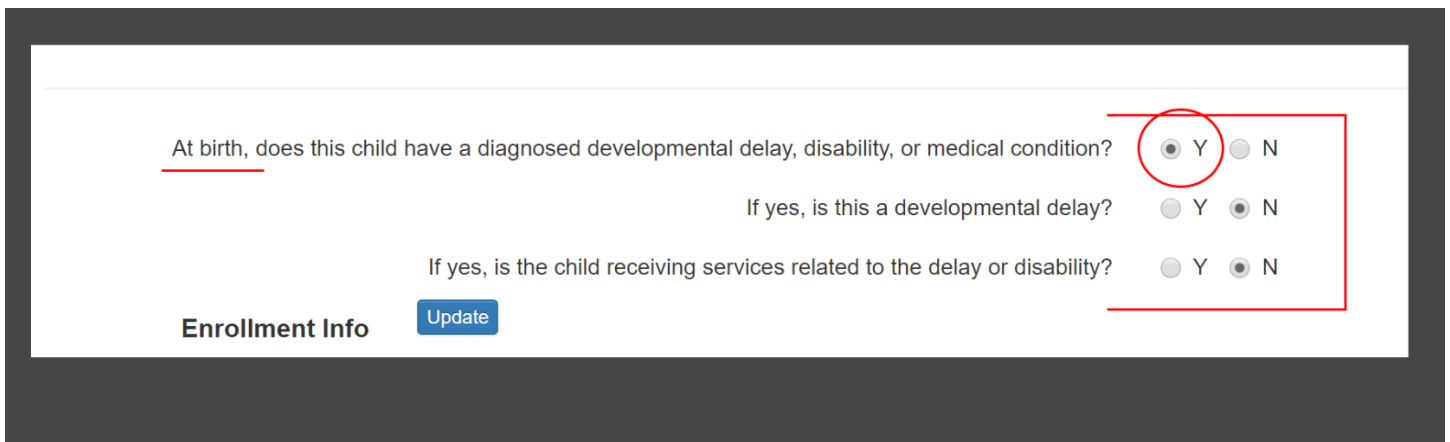

When "Y" is selected, 2 additional questions will show up.

- "If yes, is this a developmental delay" - This is a new question recently released related to MIECHV reporting for Illinois programs
- "If yes, is/was the child already receiving services related to the delay or disability upon enrollment?"

The screenshot shows the form with three questions. The first question is "At Enrollment, does this child have a diagnosed developmental delay, disability, or medical condition?" with "Y" selected. The second question is "If yes, is this a developmental delay?" with "N" selected. The third question is "If yes, is/was the child already receiving services related to the delay or disability upon enrollment?" with "N" selected. A red box highlights the "Y" and "N" options for all three questions. The "Enrollment Info" label is at the bottom.

If this is a prenatal child being updated with birth information, the questions will read slightly different.

The screenshot shows the form for a prenatal child being updated. The first question is "At birth, does this child have a diagnosed developmental delay, disability, or medical condition?" with "Y" selected. The second question is "If yes, is this a developmental delay?" with "N" selected. The third question is "If yes, is the child receiving services related to the delay or disability?" with "N" selected. A red box highlights the "Y" and "N" options for all three questions. The "Enrollment Info" label and an "Update" button are at the bottom.

After the child has been entered/updated from the Child Data page, the questions and responses will be seen in the child's Health Info section.

Here you will be able to either edit the first entry if needing to correct. Or if there is a change in the child's condition, you can update by clicking "Add Item".
